When Does Self-Criticism Lead to Depression in Collectivistic Context

Abstract

The study examined a research model predicting the moderating effect of interdependent self-construal on the relationship between internal self-criticism and depression. The participants were 319 college students from the Philippines. Data were collected using a self-reported questionnaire directly administered to the participants. The findings revealed that internal self-criticism, but not interdependent self-construal, predicted depression. Interdependent self-construal moderated the influence of internal self-criticism on depression, and showed that the influence of self-criticism on depression was weaker among individuals with high levels of interdependent self-construal. The findings were discussed in the context of cultural orientation in counseling practice.

Abstract

We compared three types of resilience (individual, community, and national resilience), two indicators of distress (sense of danger and distress symptoms) and wellbeing, among samples from Israel, Brazil, and the Philippines, during the “first-wave” of COVID-19 pandemic. Though significant differences were found among the samples regarding all variables, similarities were also

NARRATIVE REPORT ON WEBINAR/ ORIENTATION

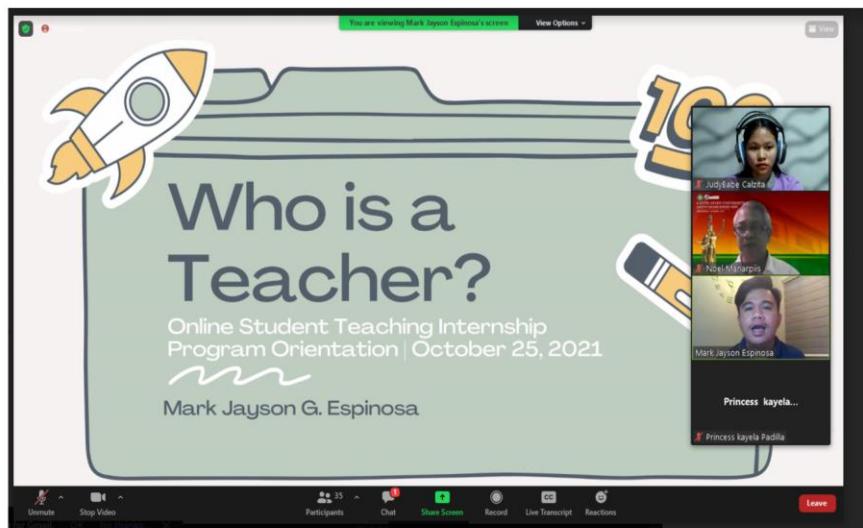

On October 25, 2021, the Teacher Education Department conducted a webinar about Online Student Teaching Internship (OSTI), a Course Program Orientation especially for Fourth-year students of Bachelor of Secondary Education Major in English. The webinar was held in the Zoom application and has been recorded by the technical personnel.

The webinar tackled four (4) topics for the preparation of the students for the internship program which are 1.) "Who is the Teacher?" elaborated by Mr. Mark Jason G. Espinosa, MAEd, LPT; 2.) "Online Teaching Internship" explained by the course adviser Dr. Noel B. Manarpiis, LPT; 3.) "Proper Grooming" explicated by Ms. Glory Anne R. Utana, LPT; and 4.) "Mental and Emotional Preparedness" tackled by our very own Registered Psychometrician of CvSU- General Trias City Campus, Ms. Louziela P. Masana, RPm, CSIOP. These topics were tackled in this webinar to inculcate knowledge and awareness to the Practice teachers on what information they should know and what things they should prepare before they do the Internship program.

Bachelor of Secondary Education Major in English

Moreover, this webinar was supported by our very own Department chairperson, Mr. Victoriano P. Barliso Jr., PhD Cand, LPT who gave his welcoming remarks and challenge for our Fourth-year Bachelor of Secondary Education Major in English students of Cavite State University-General Trias City Campus. Nonetheless, our Campus Administrator Mr. Lauro B. Pascua gave his inspirational message for the future educators of the campus.

A screenshot of a Zoom webinar interface. On the left, a yellow box contains the word 'Reflections' and three bullet points: '- the world is not a stage.', '- acknowledge seniority.', and '- adapt and reinvent yourself.' To the right, there is a grid of participant video feeds. The first row includes Glory Anne Utala, Marilgol Tabujara, Jamie Velasco, Shaira Mae Daan, and Erika R. Lozano. The second row includes LAICA JAENE S... (with a note 'DIZON'), MICHAELA KIM..., Erwin Sabino, Maecy Barbucu, and Yna Calitis. The third row includes Maria Louiesa..., Cristine Cajeric, Hazlen Chen Le..., Ilano Liana Marie, and Mary Jane Morales. The fourth row includes Lei Castalla, Erica, Christine, Marconi Eugenio, and Allyza Oloya. The fifth row includes Rosemarie Ramos, Rishan Mae Agu..., Liomar N. The bottom of the screen shows the Zoom control bar with options like 'Unmute', 'Stop Video', 'Participants', 'Chat', 'Share Screen', 'Record', 'Live Transcript', and 'Reactions'.

The main objective of this webinar was to orient the Fourth-year students who will now undergo their Internship program about the things that they need to know, follow, and of course, prepare. Aside from being the course requirement, this orientation will help the students be prepared mentally, physically, emotionally, and intellectually not only with the internship but also with the future work and responsibilities of their soon-to-be profession.
